D. Host Institution

Choose the institution where you wish to develop your research project and career.

D1. Select the host institution

This section identifies the institution involved in the project from a scientific standpoint. You must select the smallest possible research unit in which you are planning to conduct your work. For example, select "Centro de Física da Universidade de Lisboa" from the drop-down menu, rather than "Universidade de Lisboa".

This field has auto-complete. Please, start by typing the Institution name and then choose the appropriate option.

If you can't find your host institution, please contact us at info.if@fct.pt

It is the responsibility of the host institution to designate the legal organisation that will form contracts with FCT and the FCT Investigator.

D2. Description of the host conditions

Please specify the host conditions that are available and/or will be made available at the institution to ensure that you can successfully complete your research project and further develop your research beyond the time that you are funded as a FCT Investigator.
